

HEARST MAY BE CANDIDATE IN NEW YORK

Political Observers Think Present Governor Miller Is Logical Opponent for News Magnate.

TAMMANY KEEPS SILENT

Both Men Considered Presidential Timber—Gubernatorial Race Is Center of Interest.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 16.—Political observers at New York state capital today were more than ever convinced that the state ticket this fall will be Miller vs. Hearst.

They are basing this conclusion on two things: First, that Republican party chiefs are determined that the present governor, Nathan L. Miller, shall run to succeed himself, in the hope of grooming him for presidential timber if he is elected.

Second, that William Randolph Hearst has the Democratic nomination sewed up in his pocket, if he cares to take it, and according to every indication here, he wants it.

It has been learned on credible authority that the Republican party managers have decided that Miller must be the G. O. P. candidate, whether he wishes it or not. The plan of the leaders at present is to trot out all aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination, killing them all off one by one, and at the last minute in the convention nominate Miller.

Miller's record has been attracting nationwide attention and it has been gratifying to some of his party leaders to note that he has been mentioned as a presidential possibility by editors outside of the state. This has inspired them with the belief that he will be a serious consideration at the next G. O. P. national convention if he is elected and it is decided that Harding shall be retired.

On the other side of the political fence, two factors point very strongly to the fact that Hearst desires the Democratic nomination. The first is the significant fact that practically the same men are fostering his candidacy up-state as did in 1906. The second is that Hearst is believed to think that if he can capture the election this year, he will be in position to command attention when he puts forward his claim for consideration as the Democratic presidential nominee two years hence.

This latter is said to be by those who know him, Hearst's one big ambition—to try for the presidential chair. He is credited with reasoning that if he can be elected governor of New York state, then he is the logical man to be Democracy's standard bearer.

The one interesting feature of the Democratic situation this year is the aloofness of Tammany Hall. No word has yet come from the Fourteenth street wigwam as to who would be acceptable to them, but here is the situation as it appears here.

Under the new convention law, Tammany Hall will have a majority of delegates to the state convention. Hearst is counted on to control Mayor John F. Hylan, who in turn, through patronage at his disposal, is the controlling influence in Tammany at the present time.

If Hearst says he wants the nomination, Hylan will see that Tammany delivers the necessary votes at the convention, it is believed here.

Hearst's booming of Hylan for the nomination here is taken as camouflage.

According to information reaching here, Al Smith, former governor, is not being given serious consideration because of a reported break between C. F. Murphy, Tammany leader, due in part to Smith's action in supporting some of the measures of Governor Miller. While this break has not become so serious as to become open, it is known that the former governor is no longer the confidant of Murphy.

Interest in the gubernatorial situation is the all-absorbing topic at the present time, and overshadows the possible make-up of the rest of the ticket to such an extent that little thought is given to the latter.

Should Hearst take the Democratic nomination for governor, then it is believed that Martin H. Glynn will be the choice for United States senator. The two are close personal friends, and Glynn has supported Hearst to a noticeable degree in his newspaper, the Times Union, in Albany.

But there is apt to be some insurgency, as George R. Lunn, of Schenectady, is also seeking one of these nominations, and unless he can be persuaded to take something else, he is apt to bolt the ticket and make it uncomfortable in a general way all around.

OLD OFFICERS TO GET BONUS

Secretary Denby Recommends Adjustment for Naval Auxiliary.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Recommendation that a bonus approximating a year's pay be provided for those naval reserve officers who formerly served in the Old Naval Auxiliary has been made by Secretary Denby to Congress.

There are about fifty of these officers now in the service and their position is very different from that of other reservists. Many of them have been continuously in the naval service since the Spanish War and are now either commanding naval supply ships or serving as first officers and chief engineers.

Recently these officers made a joint appeal to the powers in Washington asking that they be made exempt from the general ruling that puts all reservists out of active service by July 1. Naval officers in general admit that it will be unfair to these "old-timers" to let them out now, without retirement pay or other benefits and the senate naval affairs committee has taken the same viewpoint.

During the hearings the department was asked by the committee to draw up some plan for relief of these veterans and the recommendations for a cash bonus was the result. This bonus would be on a sliding scale. Those officers who have served fourteen years are to get a full year's pay; those who have served ten years to get seventy-five per cent of a year's pay; the lowest bonus being sixty per cent of a year's pay.

The Naval Auxiliary Service was organized in 1898 and its members commanded naval supply ships, being accorded the same treatment as regular officers and being entitled to all the benefits of accrued service. At the outbreak of the World War, these officers were arbitrarily forced into the newly created Naval Reserve. This changed their status, putting them on a par with volunteer officers and depriving them of retirement privileges and other benefits.

HALLSVILLE TO HAVE ELECTRIC CURRENT SOON

Mexico Utility Co. to Furnish Twenty-Four-Hour Power as Soon as Line Is Constructed.

COST WILL BE $1,000

Step Is Being Taken by Citizens to Sell Bonds to Raise Necessary Money.

The proposition of the Mexico Utilities Co. to supply Hallsville with a twenty-four-hour power service is rapidly materializing. About forty men, citizens of Hallsville, attended a mass meeting held on the street last night to consider the proposition and to hear the report of the committee sent to Mexico yesterday to inspect the company's plant and to get the details of the proposition. The meeting was called to order by Earl S. Dysart, who acted as chairman and spokesman for the committee.

Mr. Dysart stated that the Mexico company intended to run a line adjacent to the Wabash right-of-way between Centralia and Hallsville, connecting with the company's line at Centralia. The estimated cost of this line plus the cost of wiring the streets of Hallsville is $1,000.

The company expects the citizens of Hallsville to buy stock in the company to that amount, paying $100 a share. This will be preferred stock, paying a dividend of one and one-half per cent quarterly.

The concern is prepared to figure with certainty on a proposition for a town the size of Hallsville, for it has other towns on its lines about the same size. It thinks that $38 a quarter would pay for the street lights, which would require only about a 20-cent tax levy.

The minimum charge for subscribers is not quite the same as was understood at the Tuesday night meeting. With forty users of current the minimum will be $2 a month for each subscriber; with sixty subscribers, $1.50. It is possible that enough subscribers can be obtained to reduce the minimum to $1. Each subscriber, of course, will have to pay for the wiring of his own house.

The much-talked-of trouble with the lights at Centralia, the company explained, is due to improper construction and care of the lines within the city. The company only delivers the current to the city limits, while the city of Centralia owns and controls lines within the city.

It was moved by L. P. Lewis and seconded by D. B. Carpenter that a committee be appointed to solicit subscribers for power and purchasers of stock. The motion was unanimously carried. The committee appointed was composed of Earl S. Dysart, J. J. Austine, Roy Lewis, L. Dinwiddie, A. J. Archer and Leslie Stevenson. These men went to work immediately and secured several subscribers before the meeting adjourned.

If the conditions are met immediately, the company thinks that it can be ready to turn on the current by September 1.

Is easier with Certo Pectin, a pure fruit compound that supplies a necessary element that is often lost through evaporation.

The texture of a jam or jelly varies with the proportion of sugar, pectin and acidity—flabby jellies that will not stand are the result of too little pectin, or too little sugar. Certo Pectin comes in eight ounce bottles with full directions for use and a helpful booklet of jam and jelly recipes. The price is 35c a bottle.
